Dr. Crawford Chosen By Oral Historians

Dr. Charles W. Crawford, associate professor and director of oral history research at Memphis State University, has been elected president of the National Oral History Association.

The association is a 900-member organization of persons involved in tape recording recent and contemporary history to support research and aid historians.

A member of the MSU faculty since 1962, Crawford is the editor of a book, "The Legacy of Cal Alley," to be published by the MSU Press this year. Alley is the late editorial cartoonist of The Commercial Appeal.